

FRIEASEL

The first accessible artists easel for painting and drawing from a wheelchair or bed

The FRIEASEL can be used seated, standing or lying, and is perfect for mouth and foot painters.

The low profile base slips under a wheelchair so any artist can get close to their canvas, free to explore their creativity through painting, drawing and mark making.

With the help of a carer or assistant, the easel arms can easily be adjusted at the twist of a handle to find the ideal painting setup for each artist.

Using a white board in place of a canvas provides a re-usable and completely accessible drawing surface.

Features

- Low profile base fits under most wheelchairs and footrests
- Compact for easier storage
- Wood is varnished for wipe clean finish
- Gas struts lessen the effort needed to adjust the easel arms
- Robust canvas clamp withstands force from tremors or uncontrolled hand movements
- Rolls on casters for easy transport
- Long easel arm brings the canvas near to an artist reclined in a chair or bed
- Great for hand, mouth or foot painting
- Canvas can be replaced with a whiteboard for use in schools or with young children
- Raised canvas keeps talk boards & communication aids visible & usable
